Worcester. Colleagues hail the selflessness of Rick Sacra.

The Massachusetts doctor who is the third American to contract the Ebola virus in Liberia has been drawn to missionary medical work for decades, according to his colleagues at a Worcester health center.

In fact, Dr. Rick Sacra, 51, whose identity was released on Wednesday, cut short his recent stint at the Family Health Center of Worcester to return to West Africa to help Ebola patients there, said Frances Anthes, the center's CEO.

Anthes said Sacra most recently returned from Liberia, where he has worked off-and-on since 1992. Sacra, she said, had originally planned to return to that country in late August, but instead returned weeks early because of the Ebola outbreak in West Africa, where 1,900 have died from the disease since March.

In the past, he has lived in Liberia for years at a time, returning to the U.S. to refine his medical skills.

"It was always really clear he believed everyone had a right to health care, including the poor in other countries," said Anthes.

Dr. Gregory Culley, chief medical officer for the Family Health Center of Worcester, said he had exchanged emails in recent weeks with Sacra. In those exchanges, Sacra described Monrovia, Liberia's capital, as chaotic and

"He wasn't nervous. That's the type of person he is. He went because he's Rick. It is his duty, his calling. He had no choice."

Culley

said the epidemic was "zero-controlled."

Before he left, Culley asked Sacra, a father of three who lives in Holden and hails from Wayland, if he knew what he was getting into.

"He said 'Yes.' He wasn't nervous. That's the type of person he is. He went because he's Rick. It is his duty, his calling. He had no choice."

It was unknown as of press time whether Sacra would be brought back to the U.S. for treatment.

Last month, two American missionaries survived their Ebola scare after being treated and released from an Atlanta facility.

National 'abortion bus' rolls into Copley Square

A group of pro-choice activists participate in the Be Bold Road Trip on Wednesday. / NICOLAUS CZARNECKI, METRO

Pro-choice activists concerned over women's rights to safe reproductive health pulled into Copley Square on Wednesday as part of a national bus tour calling for a lift of bans that deny abortion coverage for low-income women.

Since kicking off the 10,000-mile Be Bold Road Trip in Los Angeles on Aug. 9 the tour has hit up Portland, Oregon; Minneapolis and Chicago, before parking Boston.

The bus served as a centerpiece for a rally Wednesday featuring Boston City Councilor Ayanna Pressley. Visitors snapped photos at a "selfie station," wrote messages on the side of the bus and heard abortion stories from local women.

"It's been really successful in terms of people just walking by and engaging with us," said Harvard student Brianna Suslovic, 19, who volunteered at the event. "It's also been a really great opportunity to educate people on things they may not know about restrictions on abortion access and access to abortion care."

The tour arrived in Boston just months after the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the state's seven-year-old law that created a 35-foot buffer zone outside abortion clinics in Massachusetts on the grounds that it violated protesters' right to free speech.

Boston resident Nate Richardson wore an eye patch as he posed for a selfie in front of the bus.

a selfie; it doesn't really do much, but at the same time it shows all the different faces of what the issue looks like," said Richardson, 23. It's not just women. It can affect anyone."

The tour lands in New Haven, Connecticut, today and is slated to end in Washington, D.C. MORGAN ROUSSEAU

If you've been downtown this the city is packed, the students are back and Boston is buzzing.

After surviving the chaos that is Sept. 1, we are now in the best month of the year, when the weather is perfect and the city is energized after a quiet summer.
However, as anyone who has ever lived in Brighton knows,
September is not a quiet month.

Students are packing Boylston proud (and precariously) inside Comm Ave. apartments and every house on Pratt Street is cranking their speakers to "11."

But, before you send a noise complaint to the BPD, let's compute why this is all sweet music to our ears.

According to the BRA, Boston alone has 35 colleges and universities that enroll 152,000 students — 34 percent of Massachusetts' total college enrollment. Those 35 colleges in Boston employ over 42,600 people and the 152,000 students spend approximately $1.7 billion a year in Boston. That's $1.7 billion per year!

Include Cambridge in the equation and the number of college students swells to 250,000
— that's 250,000 students who spend billions and billions of dollars per year in the city.

By the numbers

Here's a breakdown of how many students attend the Hub's bigger colleges:

- Boston University: 33,747
- Harvard: 28,147
- Northeastern: 21,257
- UMass Boston: 15,741

We will 'degrade and destroy' ISIS: Obama

Reporter killed.

Secretary of State John Kerry called Sotloff's execution a "punch to the gut."

The United States plans to fight Islamic State until it is no longer a force in the Middle East and will seek justice for the killing of American journalist Steven Sotloff, President Barack Obama said on Wednesday.

He added that destroying the militant group will take time because of the power vacuum in Syria, the abundance of battle-hardened fighters that grew out of al Qaeda during the Iraq war and the need to build coalitions, including with local Sunni communities.

Islamic State released a video on Tuesday showing the be-

U.S. and British officials both examined the Islamic State video and concluded it was authentic. / GETTY IMAGES

Quoted

"Those who make the mistake of harming Americans will learn that we will not forget and that our reach is long and that justice will be served."

Obama authorized the strike in Pakistan that killed al Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden 10 years after the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks on the U.S.

heading of the U.S. journalist, the second American hostage to be killed within weeks, in retaliation for U.S. air strikes in Iraq.

"The bottom line is this: Our objective is clear and that is to degrade and destroy [the Islamic State] so that it's no longer a threat not just to Iraq but also the region and to the United States," Obama told a news conference.

"Whatever these murderers think they will achieve with killing innocent Americans like Steven, they have already failed," Obama said. "They failed because, like people around the world, Americans are repulsed by their barbarism. We will not be intimidated."

The United States resumed air strikes in Iraq in August for the first time since the pullout of U.S. troops in 2011.

Ned Ehrbar takes on the world of gossip.

NED EHRLBAR

@Nedrick

Remember when Gwyneth Paltrow compared being a mom with a regular office job to being a mom who's a famous actress and decided her situation was tougher? Well, "Nashville" star Connie Britton does. "Our hours are long, but I would never compare what I do to what anyone else does," Britton tells Redbook. "Everybody's working hard and doing the best they can — if you're a mom, there's that pressure, we all face it. I'm constantly being pulled in different directions. But that's the thing: Moms are pulled and distracted. I would never say that's worse for me because I'm an actor."

As a refresher, here's what Paltrow said about the difference between her and, say, Diane Keaton's character in "Baby Boom" (because all of these references are terribly current): "I think it's different when you have an office job, because it's routine and ... you can do all the stuff in the morning and then you come home in the evening. ... When you're shooting a movie, they're like, 'We need you to go to Wisconsin for two weeks,' and then you work 14 hours a day and that part of it is very difficult. I think to have a regular job and be a mom is not as — of course there are challenges, but it's not like being on set."

Thanks again, Goop!

Connie Britton more enlightened than Gwyneth Paltrow

Cee Lo has made sure his life isn't so hot right now

Cee Lo Green's "The Good Life" won't be coming back to TBS for a second season, which makes sense considering that the former "Voice" judge's life isn't that good right now. The cancellation news, first announced by the Hollywood Reporter, comes in the wake of Green's latest legal troubles and a rape-related Twitter meltdown, and critics have been quick to suggest cause and effect. Last week, Green pleaded no contest to giving a woman ecstasy without her knowledge in 2012. Though his plea maintained his innocence in the case, he was sentenced to three years' probation, 360 hours of community service and a year of weekly NA/AA meetings. He followed that up by getting into a bizarre Twitter fight about rape and the nature of consent. "If someone is passed out they're not even with you consciously! So with implies consent," he wrote. "People who have really been raped remember."

Most exciting films at TIFF

It's not Cannes, but it's close: The Toronto International Film Festival is the cinematic spectacle that lands right as awards season kicks off. Many of the films that will soon be gobbling up trophies make their debut here, usually bringing with them their good-looking stars. There are 400 films screening at TIFF, but here are seven that we're really excited about.

'The Imitation Game' 1

Benedict Cumberbatch injects some early life into the Oscar race in this true wartime tale of British mathematician Alan Turing and his efforts to crack the German's Enigma machine during World War II. Cumberbatch has come in strong to the festival before (see last year's disappointing "The Fifth Estate"), but this one feels like the real deal.

'Foxcatcher' 2

"Moneyball" director Bennett Miller returns to TIFF with this Sundance hit starring Steve Carell, Channing Tatum and Mark Ruffalo telling the true story of a pair of Olympic wrestler brothers (Tatum and Ruffalo) and eccentric millionaire John du Pont (Carell).

'The Theory of Everything' 3

Eddie Redmayne is already earning raves for his turn as Stephen Hawking in a film about his time at university as he falls in love and falls victim to a motor neuron disease that robs him of his speech and mobility.

'Maps to the Stars' 4

David Cronenberg, one of Toronto's favorite sons, takes on a dysfunctional family mired in the depths of Hollywood and fame-seeking, featuring a stellar cast led by Julianne Moore.

'Rosewater' 5

Jon Stewart steps away from "The Daily Show" desk with his directorial debut, an adaptation of the New York Times best-selling memoir by BBC journalist Maziar Bahari about being detained and interrogated in Iran in 2009. Gael Garcia Bernal plays Bahari.

'St. Vincent' 6

Bill Murray stars as a curmudgeon taking his 12-year-old son under his wing and educating the boy in the world of race tracks, dive bars and strip clubs while the boy's mother (Melissa McCarthy) is busy at work. There are worse ways to grow up.

'Wild' 7

Reese Witherspoon is after another Oscar with "Wild," directed by Jean-Marc Vallée ("Dallas Buyers Club"), about a woman leaving her broken marriage and drug-addled past behind to embark on a thousand-mile solo trek along the Pacific Crest Trail.

Interview. Whit Stillman says "The Cosmopolitans" is not television — it's a 26-minute film.

Noted independent filmmaker Whit Stillman takes the social worlds he examines in films like "Metropolitan," "Barcelona" and "Damsels in Distress" and transfers it to television — sort of — with an Amazon Studios digital pilot, "The Cosmopolitans." The pilot for the series — chronicling a group of American ex-pats (including Chloe Sevigny and Adam Brody) trying to make their way in the Paris social scene — debuted online last week, with more to come if all goes well.

What will a Whit Stillman TV show look like?

We always called it a film: "We're doing the film, we're making a film." It's just a film that only happens to run 26 minutes. Hopefully it will be in chapters and we'll get to make at least six more chapters.

Have you planned those out to some extent?

Not exactly. I really love to write from detail to story rather than have a story and then do the details, so I have to kind of give them some version of how it could be before mid-September. But when it really comes down to it, I prefer to start from scratch and just get the characters doing their stuff and going in different directions.

How've you found the experience of working with Amazon?

Well, I've had a long relationship with them. One of the first things that Amazon Studios did, actually, was to option "Metropolitan" for remaking. They were going to allow neophyte filmmakers to use the "Metropolitan" story to adapt to their own uses. I think too many people focus on that sort of class nature of "Metropolitan," when in fact it's really just a story of group dynamics. It's someone from outside coming into a group and the group falling apart or metamorphosing. That really could be any milieu. But I think there were problems at the Writers Guild, or complications, so that didn't go through.

THE A TEAM

Sheeran says a cab driver persuaded him to rethink some of his lyrics. / BEN WATTS

'X' factor. Ed Sheeran may be the singer/songwriter of his generation, but he doesn't know for sure.

On pop charts populated by rappers and dance floor divas, a 23-year-old Brit with an acoustic guitar stands out. Ed Sheeran, whose sophomore album, "X" peaked at the No. 1 position on the Billboard 200 earlier this summer, says he likens his popularity to a niche that needs to be filled.

"I think there is one singer/songwriter for every generation," he says. "I guess I'm just this generation's one."

This statement is characteristic of Sheeran in conversation. There's an element of the grandiosity one needs to become a pop star, but there's also a healthy dose of humility and even a trace of self-doubt. He says the phrase "I guess" about as often as he sings about being drunk.

Sheeran's music is also rife with these levels of certainty.

"I like a lot of different types of music, and I like trying them out, I guess," he says. "I never want to be a one-trick pony, even if I don't master the other crafts."

On his latest single, "Don't," he mixes his natural sense of melody with rap, fuzzy bass, delicate falsetto backgrounds and a sing-along chorus that seems to be missing a certain word.

"That was always the original intention to put it on the record with the swear," he says of the chorus, which was originally "don't f— with my love." Why did he change it? Fear that it wouldn't receive airplay? Concern that the swear would make the tale of infidelity sound too mean? Nope. It was an eventful cab ride from L.A. to Malibu.

"I was chatting with the driver," recounts Sheeran. "We 'Don't' ask that

One thing you won't get Sheeran talking about is who the subject of "Don't" is.

Pointing to the lyric, "me and her, we make money the same way," many were quick to suggest when "X" was first released that it was about Ellie Goulding, with whom Sheeran had been spotted at a few public outings. So who is it about?

"No one's got an answer out of me out of me yet," he says, resolute that this interview won't be any different.

were talking for about an hour and then he said his daughter was a fan and I said, 'Hey can I play you some new stuff?' ... On that song he thought I swore too much, so I took it off for him, I guess."

Elsewhere on "X," Sheeran raps about Bon Iver and croons soulfully about how he'll be loving the subject of his song long after "the crowds don't remember my name." What's that about?

"Everyone's got their kind of time slot, depending on how long your audience wants to make your time slot," he says, "so I'm just going to keep going until it starts to fade away, I guess."

DRINK YOUR WAY TO A FREE TRIP TO CANCUN

Typically, if you want to drink 100-plus varieties of tequila, you have to take a trip to Mexico. At The Painted Burro in Davis Square, you can do so without leaving the city — and then take the trip to Mexico anyway. It's one of the prizes guests can drink their way toward in the bar's Agave Club program. Guests are given a checklist of 100 tequilas and mezcals (out of about 150 total), and the bar keeps track as you drink through them all. Drink 25 to earn a home margarita kit, or for 50 get a four-course dinner for two with mezcal pairings. Drink all 100 for round-trip airfare to Cancun.

"We have a lot of regulars that are frequently trying and tasting a lot of the tequilas, and we thought it would be the right thing to do to recognize their loyal patronage and give something back to the guests," director of operations Alec Riveros says.

Currently, The Painted Burro is offering tequilas made by Corazon that have been aged in a variety of whiskey barrels. The Corazon tequila from Corazon is a hand-selected barrel unique to The Painted Burro. It's a reposado aged in Canadian oak for eight months. "As tequila ages you start to lose some of the bright peppery quality you get when it's young," Riveros says. "You start to pick up some secondary flavors, a real balance of roasted caramel." And plenty of roasted pear to my taste.

My favorite was the Chinaco anejo. It's a viscous sip of bright orange citrus, and, coming from the northeastern coastal region of Tamaulipas, Mexico, it's got a ton of salinity from the ocean air.

You know what else is on the ocean in Mexico? Cancun. You better get drinking.

Leave it to Stephen Sondheim to turn the grisly tale of Victorian bogeyman Sweeney Todd into a successful musical. There's a certain morbid thrill in the show's over-the-top violence and cannibalism — who could trust a meat pie after seeing it? — but the really shocking thing is how Sondheim make us sympathize with his "demon barber," imbuing him with anti-heroic charisma.

Iranian-American comedian Maz Jobrani was one of the original participants in the Axis of Evil comedy tour. His act dissects the difficulties and confusions of being a Middle Easterner in post-9/11 America, but he goes about it with little bitterness, confident that the average person desires to see past race — "There's good people everywhere" is one of his common refrains.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22.
Put your energy and enthusiasm to good use. By getting small jobs done, you will have the time to do something that will make you feel special.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22.
Interaction with family members or colleagues will be dissatisfying. If you want to lessen the tension, consider stepping away from the turmoil by offering to run errands.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21.
Don't let friends or family subdue your enthusiasm. You may be considered quirky or unusual, but that is no reason to stifle your creativity or deaden your personality.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Keep money matters a secret for the time being. Resist the urge to lend or borrow. Don't discuss investments or financial plans until you have your facts and figures straight.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. You may be confused about your love life. Be honest about the way you feel, and discuss personal decisions with your partner. Sharing is the best way to keep your relationship alive.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. Protect your interests. There are people who would like to benefit from your ideas or ventures. Your intuition will guide you to the right confidants.

♈ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Participate in an unusual or unconventional creative process. New friendships will develop if you are open about the way you feel and the things you want to pursue.

♊ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Travel and communication are highlighted. Valuable friendships and information will come your way if you do things with people you admire.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Take the time to assist family members. You will gain important allies if you are helpful to older relatives. This is a good day to scrutinize your papers.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Don't criticize others. Your emotions will run high, and you are likely to offend someone if you refuse to see both sides of a situation. Bide your time and avoid isolation.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. Put in extra hours at work and increase your productivity. Your superiors will appreciate your efforts and will put you in the running for a raise.

Don't exclude Michael Sam

If Michael Sam had performed poorly in preseason games, his exclusion from the NFL would be understandable. But everybody admits that he was not just good; he was VERY good. So, the only reason he was excluded is that all of the NFL teams are "afraid." It looks like there will be only one football hero this season, and he is openly gay. All the rest are wimps, and they just gave themselves a black eye.

Metro doesn't think like the patriarchy

Re: 'Creepy hackers release creepy naked celeb photos for the Internet's creeps' (Metro, Sept. 2) Thanks for writing "The notion 'don't take nude photos of yourself if you don't want them online' both unnecessarily shames the victim of an actual crime — hacking and theft of personal property — and seems to give a pass to actual criminals by leaving the hacker out of the equation altogether."

It's refreshing to hear this come from a man. Some female friends and I are often climbing mountains to convey this idea to both men and women who fail to understand how a socially constructed, patriarchy-centric expression of language can impact how they interpret a situation. By saying this, you are demonstrating that such ideas are not developed in a vacuum by women alone. In many conversations about women's empowerment, men are often left out of the conversation as though they have little wisdom to add or capacity to acknowledge women. I applaud you for adding that bit. As readers finish the article, they can recenter themselves and be reminded that this is essentially a case of an invasion of privacy, and that hacking into other people's private accounts is not the fault of the victim. The celebrities who fell victim to this situation should not be told they should never have taken those pictures.

NFL predictions doomed for failure in 2014 season

Metro looks into its crystal football to predict what will transpire this season in the National Football League.

MATT BURKE
matt.burke@metro.us

As much as there is an annual cry for the day after the Super Bowl to be declared a National holiday ... or rather, a National hangover day, Opening Day in the NFL also deserves consideration for time away from work. Watching football is without question America's pastime these days, and the NFL isn't shy about stringing us along. Week 1 of the NFL season has the most games spread out over a five-day time frame of the entire year, with the action beginning Thursday night and stretching all the way into next Tuesday morning. So, break in that special spot on the couch and don't move until February. It's football season.

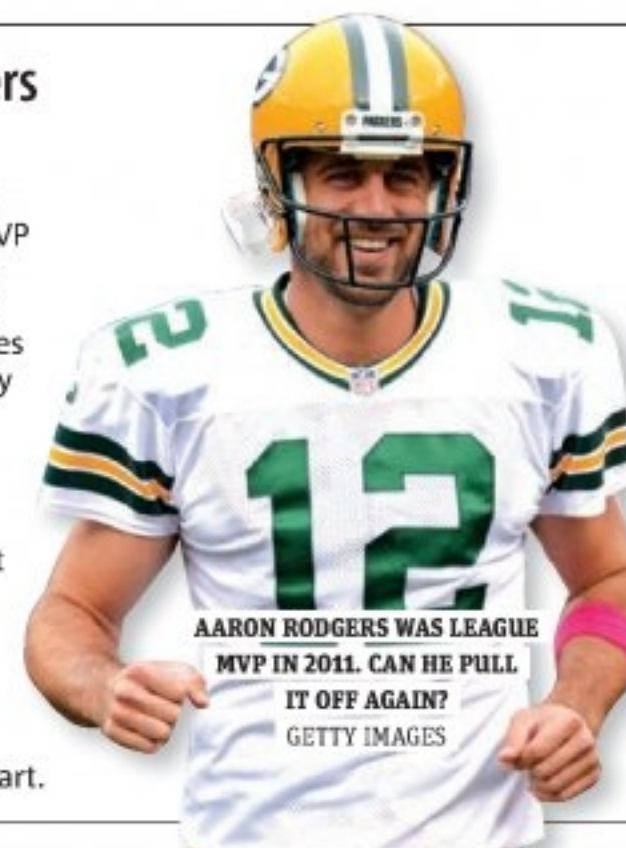

Tom Brady and the Pats have 7-1 odds to win it all. / GETTY IMAGES

The Pats will win Super Bowl XLIX

Ten years after beating the Philadelphia Eagles to win their last Super Bowl, Tom Brady and Bill Belichick will once again hoist the Lombardi Trophy, again at the expense of the Philadelphia Eagles. The main reason why the Pats couldn't keep pace with the league's elite last year was because of numerous injuries to key players. Rarely are the football gods that cruel, injury-wise, to one franchise in back-to-back years.

Aaron Rodgers will be MVP

A quarterback has won the league MVP award in six of the last seven years. In other words, it takes a historic season by a running back to swipe the award from a signal-caller. Defenses will be kept honest when playing Green Bay as Eddie Lacy's running ability will allow Rodgers to pick opponents apart.

Biggest surprise: The Eagles will win the NFC

There's going to be many weeks this season in which people say, "Wow, this Chip Kelly guy is just that good." But the biggest reason the Eagles will be in Glendale, Arizona, in 150 days is because of the teams they play. The NFC East as a whole is down once again and the Eagles play the 12th easiest schedule in the NFL. Plus, the NFC favorites, the Seahawks and 49ers, are due to regress this season.

Colin Kaepernick and the 49ers are candidates to regress in 2014. GETTY IMAGES

Biggest bust: The 49ers will miss the playoffs

Things are unraveling in San Francisco. It would have been hard enough for a team to make the NFC Championship game for a fourth straight year, but the Niners haven't done themselves any favors this offseason. Half of their defense is either injured or in legal trouble and their coach nearly landed in Cleveland.

Quick-hitters

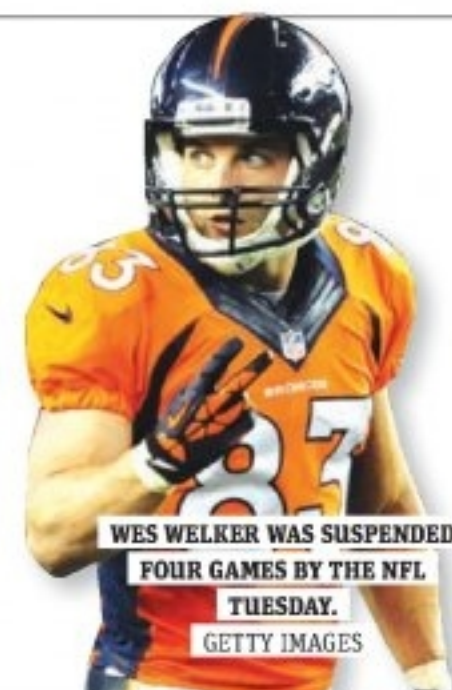

We like the Pats over the Eagles in Super Bowl XLIX, but there's plenty to figure out before we get there:

- AFC playoff teams: Patriots, Broncos, Texans, Bengals, Chargers, Jets
- NFC playoff teams: Eagles, Packers, Falcons, Seahawks, Bears, Cardinals
- AFC title game: Patriots over Chargers
- NFC title game: Eagles over Packers
- Rushing champion: LeSean McCoy, Eagles

- Passing yards champion: Matthew Stafford, Lions
- Receiving yards champion: Julio Jones, Falcons
- First head coach to be fired: Doug Marrone, Bills
- Coach of the Year: Chip Kelly, Eagles
- Team with the worst record: Jacksonville Jaguars
- Offensive Rookie of the Year: Brandin Cooks, WR, Saints
- Defensive Rookie of the Year: Ryan Shazier, LB, Steelers

Biggest storyline: The year of PEDs

Soon to be gone are the days of people looking the other way when a football player is "roided up." There's already some concussion discussion fatigue going on and people will need something new to rail against. Perhaps Wes Welker shifted the discussion single-handedly. Alleged Molly use will give way to talk about the NFL's true drug of choice: HGH.

WES WELKER WAS SUSPENDED FOUR GAMES BY THE NFL TUESDAY. GETTY IMAGES

GRAB THESE LATE RISERS NOW

There are a lot of owners out there who got steals on draft day and don't even know it yet. A look at some late risers:

Dougie Money

Initially, the regime change in Tampa didn't look like a good thing for Doug Martin. They were talking up a committee approach, with rookie Charles Sims handling all the passing-down work. But since then, Sims broke his ankle and Martin has been able to change the staff's opinion of him as a receiver. Now we have a three-down back for run-first head coach Lovie Smith. Furthermore, the Bucs were able to swing a trade for guard Logan Mankins.

Win Ben's Money

Rookie Terrance West was supposed to challenge Ben Tate for reps in Cleveland. It never happened, as West has been slow to transition from I-AA Towson to the big leagues. So Tate, who has tons of NFL experience in the zone-blocking scheme Kyle Shanahan has installed, is going to be an every-down player. He'll be running behind an underrated yet strong offensive line on a team that will have to run the rock a ton to hide their passing "attack" of Brian Hoyer, Miles Austin and Andrew Hawkins.

More Mohamed

Hey, players can get better. A low-upside slot man through

Steer clear

Avoid these players in Week 1:

- Jarrett Boykin: Locked in as the No. 3 WR in Green Bay. But playing exclusively on the outside, he's going to see a lot of Richard Sherman.
- Ladarius Green: The matchup vs. Arizona is perfect but the usage is not. Antonio Gates is still the man in the red zone.
- Devonta Freeman: Steven Jackson's hamstring is 100 percent ... right now.

his first two NFL seasons, Mohamed Sanu broke out as the star of both the Bengals' offseason and training camp. In preseason action, he posted a 7-126-1 line on just 65 preseason snaps. With Marvin Jones breaking his foot, Sanu is set to play in all formations for at least the first five weeks — if not more. He's a sneaky WR 3/4 candidate who is on waivers in most leagues.
